

Access to Healthy Communities in Delaware's Built Environment - Breaking the Barriers to Healthy Communities

Built Environment Forum

Communities learn the “good life” can be a killer. Public health experts have researched and found that serious impacts result from the creation of vehicle-dependant environments. The current built environment fosters obesity, poor health, social isolation, excessive stress, and depression. The Environment & Policy Committee along with state, local, and private agencies need your input and guidance to work towards solutions so that we can build and retain healthy communities within Delaware.

Your Attendance is Requested

What: Access to Healthy Communities in Delaware's Built Environment – Breaking the Barriers to Healthy Communities

When: Tuesday, May 8, 2012

Where: Outlook at the Duncan Center
555 W. Loockerman Street
Ste. B1
Dover, DE 19904

Time: 10:00 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.

Purpose: Creating healthy communities should be a priority for all local governments, developers, and citizens of the State of Delaware. In this forum we will discuss what the barriers are to creating healthy communities and learn how some towns are breaking those barriers. We need your input on what barriers remain and what the next step is to creating healthier communities across Delaware.

Please join us for this important discussion!

Seating is limited to the first 100 respondents. The registration form is below. Please respond by April 23, 2012 if you are able to participate in the forum.
